When I use a web browser to view the video from the exacqVision Web Server, do I need to install any additional software or applets?

No. The exacqVision Web Server transcodes video into a JPEG that can be viewed by any modern web browser. This allows anybody to use the Web Server without downloading or installing additional software.